Preface by

Olga Trofimtseva
Deputy Minister for European Integration of the Ukraine Ministry of Agrarian Policy and Food

Modern Ukraine is a significant player in the global food security system. We have already become the worldwide leader in the export of sunflower oil. Moreover, we are among the top global exporters of grain, poultry, honey and eggs. Ukrainian foreign agricultural trade reached $22.6 billion in 2017 with almost $18 billion that figure in agrifood exports.

Despite all the positive developments in our agrifood sector and exports in the recent years, Ukraine still has immense potential to develop niche markets. Horticulture, including berry production, is among the subsector with the highest growth potential. In the first six months of 2018, we have already exported 7,900 tons of berries. More than 70% of these exports were directed towards the EU countries

The year 2017 was also quite successful for berry exports with fresh berry export value exceeding $9 million, and the value of frozen berry exports reached $58 million. Even with this level of success, these figures are still far from the sector's potential. That's why the Ministry of Agricultural Policy and Food of Ukraine placed the horticultural sector among the priorities in the state support programs for 2018, encouraging the growth of commercial production of fruits, berries and grapes.

As the next step of this governmental support, we would like to concentrate more on processing.

I am absolutely convinced that Ukrainian horticulture, including berry production, with little assistance from the state can supply high quality products under the highest international standards, both fresh and processed, for the domestic and export markets.

My strong belief is that we will witness an export breakthrough for Ukrainian horticultural producers in the coming years.

Dear Friends,

We are proud to introduce to you the first Berries Industry of Ukraine catalogue. This catalogue was prepared for you by the Ukrainian Berries Association within the framework "Eastern Partnership: Ready to trade – an EU4Business initiative" financed by the European Union and implemented by the International Trade Centre.

The Ukrainian Berries Association is a sectorial organization that seeks to serve the best interests of both producers and processors. We focus our activities on efficiency and competitiveness in our sector, working to open new markets and foster overall sector development. We believe that our country and our producers are making an increasingly important contribution to global markets.

The berries industry of Ukraine is booming with exports having grown by 11 times during the last four years. Working together we expect to see continued growth for the benefit of all.

With this catalogue we present to you selected export-oriented producers of fresh berries, frozen berries and finished berry products. We truly believe that you will find business opportunities and good partners in Ukraine.

With best regards
Iryna Kukhtina, President of the Ukrainian Berries Association

AN OVERVIEW OF THE UKRAINIAN BERRY MARKET

The Ukraine's berry industry is booming, demonstrating immense growth since 2014 (expanding by more than 11 times in 4 years) and it is also one of the most attractive returns on investment in Ukrainian agriculture.

Ukraine's total production of berries by official statistics in 2017 was over 140,000 tons with exports of 22,000 tons of fresh and frozen berries to 67 countries all over the world.

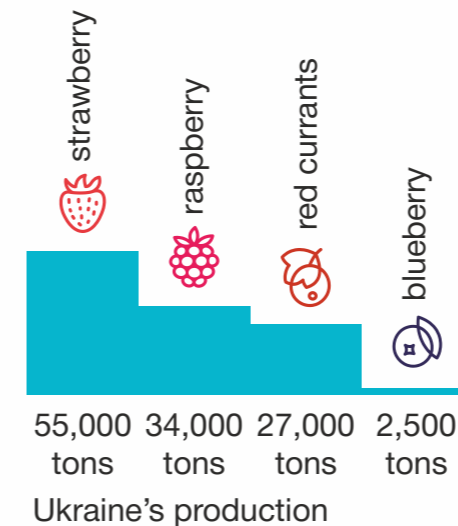

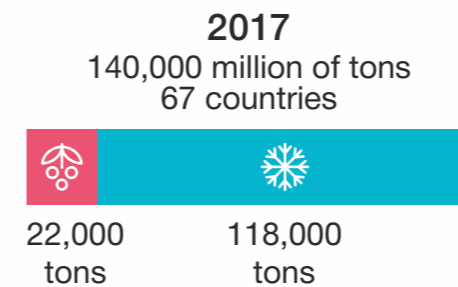

Berry products brought to market by Ukrainian producers include a wide range of both wild and cultivated berries.

Ukraine's main production of cultivated berries includes strawberries (55,000 tons), raspberries (34,000 tons), black and red currants (27,000 tons), and highbush blueberries (1,300 tons).

The main wild berries gathered and marketed include blueberry, blackberry, cranberry, elderberry, lingonberry, and aronia.

Processed products enter the domestic and export markets mainly as quick-frozen berries and berry mixtures, juice concentrates, single variety purees, mixed-fruit preparations and a wide range of easy-to-use quick-frozen combinations.

To meet changing market trends, Ukrainian producers are rapidly expanding their preparation of packaged, quick-frozen, wild and cultivated berries that meet all standards to be labeled as "Organic".
